Happy Dollars

- Diana Perry's family weathered the intestinal virus but survived in time to enjoy Christmas.
- Dave Cook is happy to have Scott visiting him until next week. He also fined Peter Einset who was recently featured on Syracuse news channel 9 during the recent snow storm.
- Linda Sutherland welcomed Grandbaby number 4, a boy, on December 16th
- Jim Dickson made the winter drive to DC last week through the Pennsylvania mountains at 4 degrees in his trusty JEEP.
- Bob McFadden is proud of daughter Emily who achieved a 4.0 at Cornell and to welcome former Interactor Stephen Fazio today.

Birthdays

We sang happy birthday to December-born Rotarians today. Reminder to remember the birthday fund to benefit Geneva Public Library.

50/50

Mike Rusinko shared $39 dollars with the Foundation fund.

Special Program

We were fortunate to have Stephen Fazio with us today. He presented the story behind his recent appearance and success on Shark Tank.

Stephen is a Geneva High School Graduate and a former Interactor. Some of us remember him when he gave us a demonstration with the Robotics team as well as Quiz Bowl. He is now a resident of Georgia and is continuing his education as an electrical engineer major at GT. He already has more than one invention to his credit but has found success with Shark Tank where he presented his Zip String invention with great success. He has created a company and now has two investors in his company from Shark Tank.

If you missed Rotary this week, you missed more than I can type in these minutes.

Respectfully Submitted
Carol Chester
